Message from the ED

Dear neighbors,

Ever since I started working on Telegraph I have heard a steady refrain from visitors: "I thought there would be something here explaining what has made Telegraph famous." We finally have that something--at least besides the historical mural at Amoeba. The free smart-phone-enabled Telegraph Historical Walking Tour will be available on your iPhone or Android device in mid-March. Over the past year we have worked diligently to capture the stories of people who were on the front lines of events that have shaped our community. The UC Graduate School of Journalism masterfully recorded and edited the narratives. Guidekick, a local Berkeley company, put it all together within an awesome 3-D interactive map to make the presentation world-class. (BTW, they are currently working on the tour for the National Gallery in DC.)

The tour will be debuted at a launch party on Wednesday, March 21st at Moe's Books at 4 pm. There will be remarks by the Mayor and hopefully the Chancellor, and short interviews of two of the contributors by Berkeleyside's Frances Dinkelspiel. Enjoy food catered by great local eateries--and receive a commemorative mug.

It'll be Telegraph's version of the Oscars, complete with a psychedelic red carpet. We look forward to seeing you there! Click here to RSVP...and bring a friend.

- Stuart

TELEGRAPH NEWS

Sunday Streets - Coming to Telegraph!

On Sunday, June 3rd Telegraph will be joining the rest of Berkeley in an event that will connect us together--all the way to North Berkeley. Imagine walking from the Gourmet Ghetto to Telegraph and not dealing with cars. Look for more details in next month's newsletter. If you have any thoughts or ideas to activate The Avenue or Durant Ave drop us an email!

Save another date!

On Wednesday, April 5th at 10 am there will be an important Telegraph Community Meeting. It will happen at in the courtyard of Mezzo and Raleigh's. The Mayor will be presenting his plans on tackling homelessness in Berkeley and answering questions. AC Transit will also be outlining a plan to improve transit times on Telegraph. This will be your chance to weigh in on a number of issues.

New and interesting

- Tammy's Chicken in Waffles finally opens in March in Sather Lane. Tammy has a great story that we will highlight next month. Nigel Sussman has now connected the two parts of the urban garden mural with this creation for Tammy.
- Around the corner from the Lane you might have noticed that the row of Wells Fargo ATM's are gone. This is temporary--they are being re-positioned for the arrival of a new cafe that will take up most of the old bank building.
- IB Hoagies just remodeled on Durant. The space looks sleek and much improved. Super Duper is finally in construction phase after a long permitting process. No date set yet for the opening. Juice Orignz should be opening very soon as well on Telegraph near Dwight. As many of you know, The Melt is gone--but that space has been leased and we should see a new eatery there in a few months. Copy Central is moving in across the street in the spring, next to Rasputin's.
